

George was born at Walgett, NSW on 17th March 1890, the son of George Hall and his wife Agnes Sophia, nee Nelson. On 11th March 1914 George joined the Machine Gun Company, AN&MEF stating that he was a brewer's labourer and single, giving his mother at 77 Botany Rd, Waterloo as his next of kin. On 11th November 1914, whilst George was in Rabaul, his father died.

He returned from Rabaul and was discharged, term expired, on 4th March 1915 having completed 206 days service. His brother, Harold Percival Nelson Hall, regimental number 504, had also served with the AN&MEF and had returned from Rabaul with Malaria, a disease he subsequently died from on 20th Jan 1915.

On 7th May 1917 George enlisted in the AIF as part of the 8th Reinforcements, AN&MEF and left Sydney on the PORT MELBOURNE on 16th July 1917, arriving in Liverpool on 16th September. He stayed with the 9th Training Battalion in the UK until moving to France and joining the 34th on 7th Feb 1918. On 4th April he received a gunshot wound to the foot and was evacuated on the 8th April to the Kitchener Military Hospital at Brighton.

He rejoined his unit on 9th November and attended the School of Electricity from 14th December 1918 until 25th March 1919. He left the UK on the WILTSHIRE on 4th July 1919, disembarking at Melbourne on 19th August and being discharged from the AIF in Sydney on 19th September 1919.

He again enlisted on 18th March 1942, service number N390735, and served with the 7th Garrison Battalion until his discharge on 12th September 1942.

He died at Gympsea Bay on 27th September 1962 and is buried at the Waverley Cemetery.
